Dedication -- Dean Friedli

When a professor and administrator has given his time, ideas, and hard work to make Elmhurst the kind of college it is, we feel pleased to honor him.

You have been such a person, Dean Friedli, for you have served Elmhurst as dean of the college, Registrar, and professor of education for the past fifteen years. Doing many things "above and beyond the call of duty" you have tried to be a guide for the students. Before coming to Elmhurst in 1947, you served as a high school administrator in St. Louis, Missouri and were a "pioneer" in many educational areas. As a token of our appreciation and best wishes for a happy future, to you, Dean Alfred Friedli, we dedicate the 1962 ELMS.

Graduation Is the Highlight of Academic Life.

Academic life of Elmhurst College is one activity in which students are perpetually engaged. It takes place in many places—at desks, in the library, the S.U.—and under varying circumstances—tests, papers, lectures, textbooks. The result is knowledge, graduation, and a degree.

Freshmen met the administration during their orientation period.

New means of locomotion?

Don't drop him—he's an upperclassman!

We'll never be parted.

Freshman Week, which was designed to acquaint the newcomers with the activities and traditions of the college and college life, included not only exams and tours, but also picnics, tug-of-war, matins, and firesides. The activities planned by the Freshmen Week Committee served to give the beanie wearing Freshmen an introduction to and impression of Elmhurst College. Freshmen had an opportunity to learn about the various buildings on campus; they had a chance to meet the administration and faculty, and they also became acquainted with the campus activities that they would be able to participate in during the coming year. The "newness" and confusion of a different experience were gradually eliminated during this orientation period. This week prepared the Freshmen for the return of the upperclassmen by acquainting them with EC.

What ravishing Frosh beauties!

A typical Freshman schedule for a day during this week included many different kinds of activities. Breakfast, held in Commons, was followed by matins in the chapel. This enabled Freshmen to begin the day with a refreshing eagerness and firm basis for the rest of the day's events. The many tests of skill and achievement were followed each day by a variety of activities such as a track meet, dance, or movie; these activities gave the new students a chance to meet those class members with whom they would be attending school for the next four years. Freshmen Week and its activities, then, laid the foundation for the coming year of studying, living, and socializing together, for it is at college that one's cultural development, one's friends, and one's career will be established.

Food and friendly conversation acquaint Freshmen with faculty.

Perfect end for a long day—President Stanger's serenade.

Freshmen begin their college life by registering and receiving instructions for their first week at EC.

The first of many perils to face an Elmhurst student at the beginning of each semester is the ordeal known as registration. This procedure can be accomplished in a delightfully short time, usually no more than two hours, with luck. From the time the student is asked why he reported half an hour early to the time he picks up his college bulletin, he is faced with a gauntlet of cards, forms, and registration sheets sufficient to produce a severe case of writer's cramp. Once this barrier is hurdled there remains one minor detail—the purchase of books. This little matter is taken care of in the Campus Store, where one is painlessly separated from a large sum of cash in exchange for fascinating texts of lasting value, unless, of course, he has misplaced his registration slip. Exhausted, but victorious, after a long day's work, he staggers home to await his classes.

Which courses should I take this semester?

The Campus Store furnishes the many needs of the students.

Cards, forms, and more cards are filled out at registration.

Elmhurst College offers a liberal arts curriculum, designed to give the student his choice of courses in a wide variety of fields, including foreign languages, literature, social and natural sciences, religion, physical education, and fine arts. There are minimum requirements in each of these fields, but once these have been satisfied, the student may continue in whichever one he desires. Though in the past Elmhurst students have majored in education, social work, business administration, pre-theological courses, and Christian Education, every year there are more majors offered in natural sciences, especially physics and chemistry, medical vocations, and speech and theatre fields. As the college increases the number of fields in which courses are offered or required, it will broaden the base of knowledge and understanding of the student, thus better equipping him to cope with the society into which he will be thrust upon graduation.

Laboratory work gives students actual experience in working with the subject

Small informal class sessions further learning on the EC campus.

Dr. Schmidt presents a lecture for his U.S. History class.

Classes at Elmhurst are generally small and held in a rather informal manner, stimulating classroom discussion while at the same time allowing the instructor to give individual assistance. While many courses are primarily lecture courses, lab sessions offer students an opportunity to work with the actual materials of the course and gain a certain amount of practical experience. On-the-job training is acquired through student teaching in education and field work in Christian Education. Students in these fields are thus placed in situations similar to those which they will face after they have been graduated and begun their life's work.

Thus through the variety of courses, the classroom and homework assignments and the study material available, the student is presented with the challenge to learn, mature, and prepare himself for his future role in society. Whether or not he lives up to this challenge is strictly up to him.

Students working in Commons provided themselves with extra money and fellow students with clean dishes.

Commons served as the "common" meeting place three times a day.

"Keep the line moving, please!"

Dress-up dinners in Commons are times for many "extras."

Commons, the college cafeteria, is a place to grab a quick breakfast before an eight o'clock class, to eat a hurry-up lunch before a twelve o'clock, and to enjoy a leisurely dinner after classes are over. Before holidays special "dress-up" dinners were planned. A "Horn-of-Plenty," lighted candles, and soft music added a festive touch before Thanksgiving. Snow-flakes, pine branches, and a Christmas tree created an appropriate atmosphere for the yuletide season. The enthusiastic singing of the "Fight Song," the chanting of "Happy Birthday," the dropping of trays, and the hearty laughter of friendly conversation are all recalled when thinking of Commons.

Life in the college dormitory is a wonderful, unforgettable experience. When living in a dorm, students become independent; for students must depend upon themselves for such mundane tasks as washing and ironing, sewing and cleaning. A new type of fellowship is established as students live, learn, work, and worship together. Academic or purely social questions are discussed, pizzas are shared, problems are worked out together, and lasting friendships are formed. Living in the dormitory offers students the opportunity of sharing common experiences with others, learning the value and importance of cooperation, and establishing oneself as an independent individual. The dormitory, then, essentially embodies the entire spirit of the school and its student body.

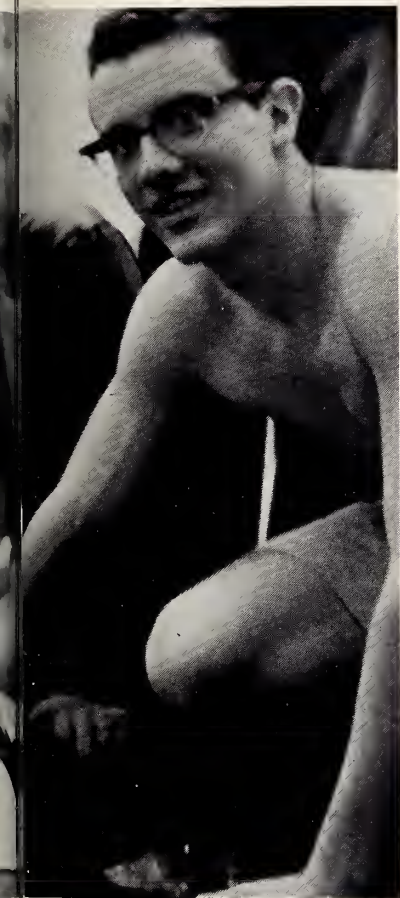

Was it friend or foe?

"Where are we going, fellas?"

Theatre practice or relaxation of upperclass women?

Lessons on how to get "A's," anyone?

Combined efforts lead to success in class work.

The SU furnishes a place for fun, food, and fellowship.

The fellas return to the romantic era by serenading their girls.

Great value can be gained when students meet together for fellowship, not only during periods of relaxation but also during study sessions. Listening to fellow students voice their ideas and opinions on a certain subject both supplements and complements ones own concepts. Studying together, whether it be to prepare for a test scheduled for the following day or to discuss a philosophical principle, can bring about increased knowledge and clearer understanding of a topic. When a fellowship group assembles, each student has the opportunity to ask questions, to correct any misconceptions he may have, and to make his own contribution to the group — an opportunity he may not always have in a classroom situation. Studying together can prove very beneficial if the students participating express themselves freely and supplement their group work by individual probing and study.

Studying — or pondering — leads to understanding.

Throughout the year the students of Elmhurst College spend many long hours in study. Finally, in the spring of each year recognition is given to Elmhurst College students as well as prospective students who have achieved a measure of excellence in their academic pursuits. These incoming Freshmen are invited to attend the Honors Day Assembly to receive their awards. Students of the college who have excelled academically receive scholarships from various individuals and organizations. Also given at this time are the public speaking awards and the faculty study grant. Acknowledgment is made of the Who's Who recipients. Thus, this program gives public recognition of work well done in many areas of college life.

Many students are awarded scholarships for their academic achievements.

Trophies for the Schick Speech Contest are also given on Honors Day.

Students exhibited their undertakings at the Science Department Spring Open House.

The Mathematics Department also displayed their year's efforts at the Open House.

The Baccalaureate Service began the day of graduation.

The graduates process to the chapel along one of the familiar campus walks.

A smile, a handshake, and "Congratulations" greet the graduate.

Climaxing four years of college life is graduation itself.

Seven honorary degrees were also presented at Commencement.

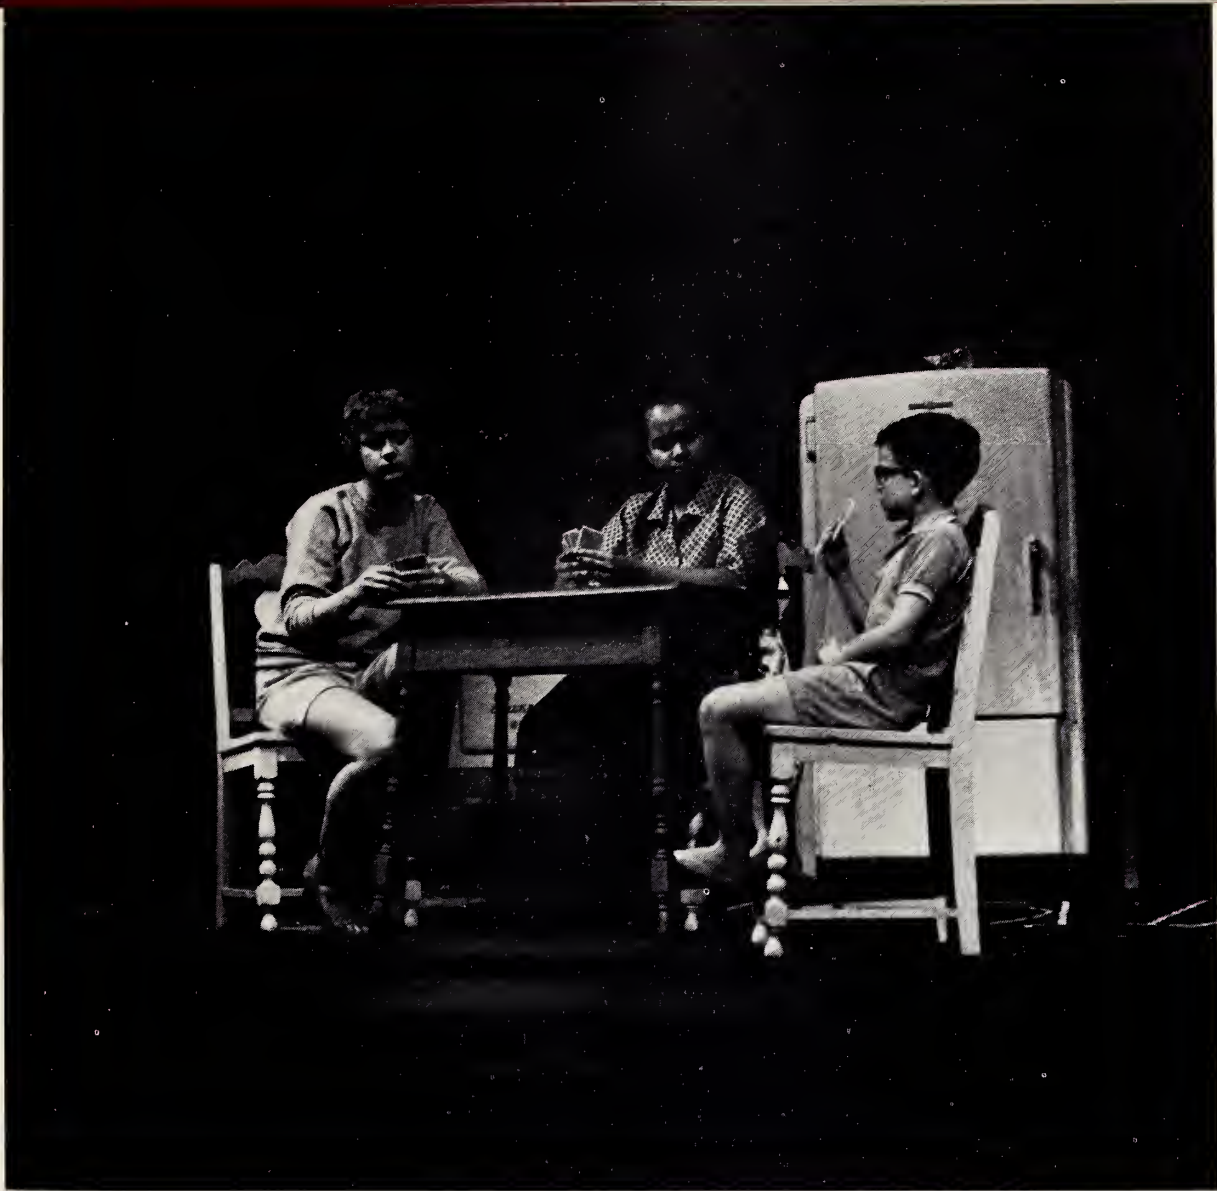

The day arrived when at last the goal was realized—graduation day, June 3, a day dreamed of four years before when one first entered into his college career. Sacrifices, disappointment and joy have gone into those four years in order to make this day become a reality. The hopes of graduation in the mall vanished as the rains came and dampened the grounds, but the happiness within each graduate could not be dampened. Then came graduation itself; and after the Commencement Address by Dr. Ben Mohr Herbst, each graduate received his cherished sheepskin. However, this day marked the beginning, the beginning of the giving of one's self to the world; for as The Reverend Eugene Wehrli, Baccalaureate speaker, said, "Of him whom much is given, of him much will be required."

Esthetic Value Is Gained from Cultural Life.

Culturally, Elmhurst College offers a variety of enriching experiences for the student—both as participant and spectator. Such opportunities are essential to the student is to emerge as a fully developed person, ready to assume his role in the ongoing world society.

Getting ready for the plays takes time and skill.

A MEMBER OF THE WEDDING—one of the fine Theatre productions of the year.

The Elmhurst College Theatre, which has been a part of the overall program of the campus since 1929, has attempted to bring outstanding drama and entertainment to the college. The College Theatre provides interested student and faculty with the opportunity to display acting ability, and also the chance to work on lighting, sets, staging, make-up, and costuming. The Theatre, however, is valuable not only to those who participate directly in the various productions, but also to those on the campus and in the community who view the dramas which are presented, for the cultural experience as viewer or participant is rewarding.

Much work is needed from the various crews to make a Theatre production a success.

Student Union Cabinet turns back the clock for their part in DECADENT DEVELOPMENT.

Behind-the-scenes rehearsal for the religious drama is helpful.

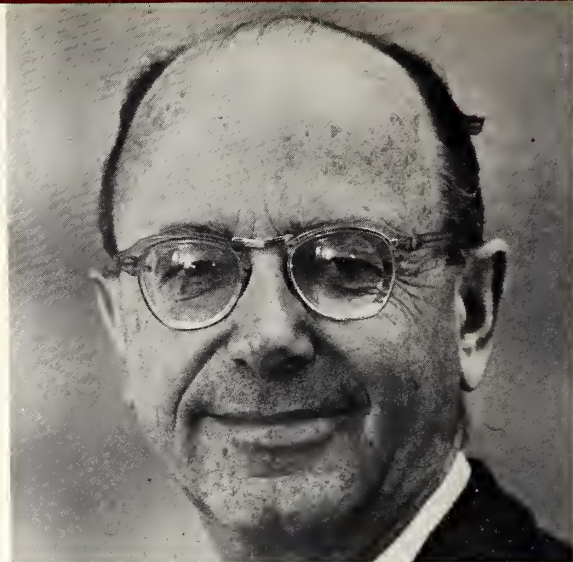

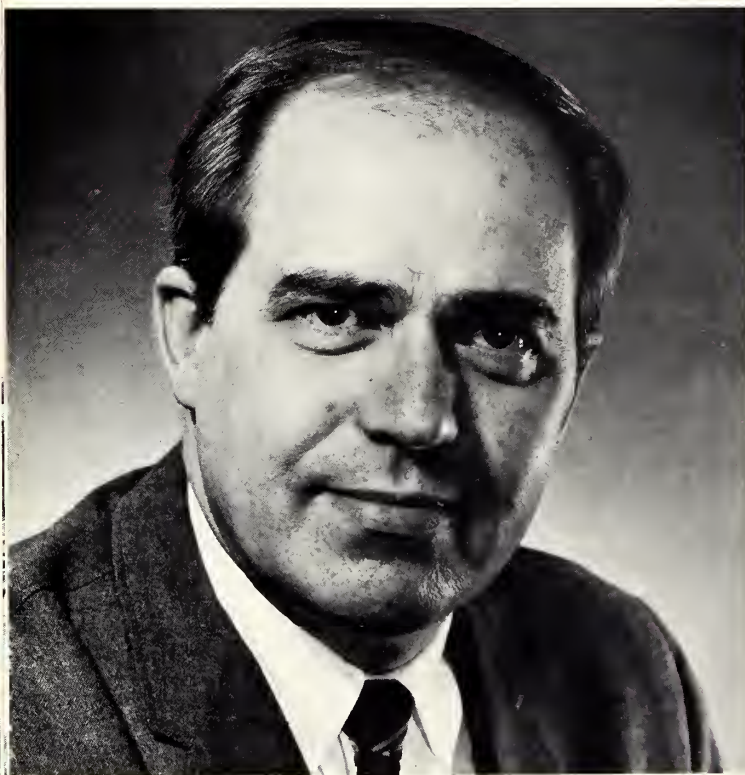

This year the College Theatre presented Decadent Development, the Homecoming production; A Member of the Wedding, directed by Mr. Garry Colburn; and a series of three one-act religious plays, The Happy Journey to Camden and Trenton, Act Without Words, and Christ in the Concrete City, directed by Professor C. C. Arends. After the religious drama was presented for the college and immediate surrounding area, the members of the cast went on tour—this being the first touring experience for the Theatre. It was designed to help people recognize the significance and purpose of religious drama for the church. Each of the productions this year brought entertainment and good drama and enabled both participants and audience to realize how important and enjoyable a theatre presentation is to the artistic and cultural aspects of society.

*THE HAPPY JOURNEY TO CAMDEN
AND TRENTON was one of the three religious dramas presented for Theatre tour.*

Dr. Richard M. Adams, one of the four Lecture Series Speakers, spoke on "Science and International Tension."

Professor Hungate spoke on the general topic of Biology and Social Obligation.

The ninth annual lecture series was presented this year with the general topic, "Science and Social Obligation." Dr. John Dillenberger, Elmhurst College alumnus and teacher at Drew University, presented the opening lecture dealing with "Science and the Whole Man." Dr. Philip Hauser, chairman of the Department of Sociology at the University of Chicago, presented the second lecture "Science and Population Growth." The third lecturer, Professor Robert Hungate of the Department of Bacteriology at the University of California, discussed "Possible Contributions of Biology Toward an Understanding of the Human Problem." The final lecturer was Dr. Richard M. Adams, associate chemist at Argonne National Laboratory speaking on "Science and International Tension."

Dr. Philip Hauser, as the other speakers, led a discussion group in the afternoon on his topic.

The Danforth Foundation made possible speakers such as Mr. and Mrs. E. Martin Browne.

Throughout the year, the assembly and worship programs presented in the Hammerschmidt Memorial Chapel brought academic and spiritual enlightenment to the campus. Assemblies on foreign aid and Cuba provided information and encouraged speculation on today's world affairs. The Bishop's Players offered thought-provoking drama. Several other assembly programs were given during the year which were informative, entertaining, and enjoyable. The worship services, featuring visiting ministers such as Dr. Allen Wehrli, in addition to faculty members brought inspirational messages and guidance to the college community.

Lecture and film presentation was just one of many informative assembly programs.

Religion-in-life Week is considered to be one of the most outstanding features of the religious program at Elmhurst College. The week consists of chapel and assembly programs, discussion groups, and class visits by the guest speaker, speaking on a particular topic. Usually in the classes the speaker will discuss those aspects of his topic which are of concern for that particular class.

Leading a discussion on Roman Catholicism this year was Father Benedict Ashley of the Dominican House in River Forest, Illinois. Among those topics discussed were, Catholic and Protestant feelings toward each other, and "Can the Ecumenical Movement Succeed?"

Rev. Benedict M. Ashley presents his views on Roman Catholicism.

Discussion groups implemented the lectures.

Visitors examine paintings at the Art Festival.

This year's Art Festival featured all forms of art from painting to sculpturing. Contributors to this exhibition, in addition to campus students, were members of the Elmhurst Artists' Guild and others. Directing this event was a committee composed of two students as well as faculty members of the Fine Arts Department. They arranged the five-day affair, which featured a film, a concert given by the music organizations, the art exhibit itself, and culminating with a lecture entitled "What Art Means in Your Life" in the college assembly by Arthur Rissman.

Photographic work was also a part of the Art Festival.

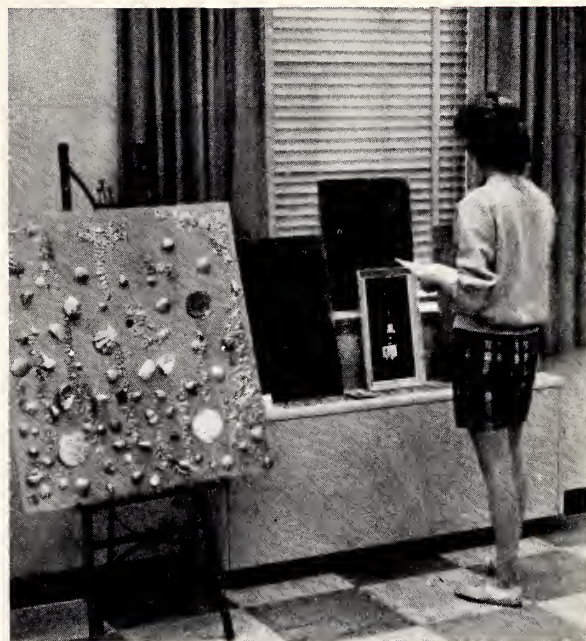

Pondering over pieces of interest to gain a better interpretation was part of the enjoyment of the works.

Ceramic works had their place in the exhibit also.

Paintings of all kinds were on display.

Unusual art pieces were in evidence at the Festival.

The Elmhurst College Orchestra, not part of the College's activities for the past few years, was organized and became active again last fall. With thirty-five members, the orchestra was complete and had full orchestral instrumentation. The newly organized orchestra under the direction of Mr. William B. Leckleider, presented two concerts on the Elmhurst Campus this year. The first concert was given in December during an assembly period; while the second concert, presented in February, was an afternoon concert open to the public. The orchestra also played Beethoven's First Symphony at the Arts Festival in spring.

The Orchestra members spend much time in rehearsal for their concerts.

Fun and Fellowship Keynote Social Life.

A variety of social events help to comprise the fully rounded Elmhurst College program. These activities are designed to unite student and faculty in fellowship. Some of these are individually initiated while others are more formally planned—parties, movies, and dances.

The Homecoming Dance, "As Time Goes By," was enjoyed by students, faculty, and alumni.

Signs of growth.

"Blueprint for Progress," the 1961 Homecoming theme, began the Decade of Development at Elmhurst College. As one entered the campus for the week-end's activities, he saw progress everywhere, whether it be a bulldozer, robot, or draftsman. However, the stablest example of the growing Elmhurst College was undoubtedly the New Men's Dorm, completed this year. At the pep rally, the 1961 Homecoming court was presented and the Homecoming queen was crowned. This was followed by the Freshmen torch parade. Making a first appearance at the pep rally was the newly formed college band, helping everyone to get into the mood.

Karen Dorn, 1961 Homecoming queen, reigned over the dance at Glendale Country Club.

Climaxing the first day of a busy weekend, fifteen campus organizations combined their talents in the theater production of "Decadent Development" describing EC's need for more room to accommodate its growing student body. Saturday morning while the students prepared themselves for the busy day, alumni met in seminars, followed by the dedication of the New Men's Dorm. The main attraction of the football game, where the Frosh finally became an official part of the campus, was the removal of their beanies at half-time. The day was climaxed by the dance held at Glendale Country Club. Sunday afternoon, after morning worship service, an organ recital was held.

Fight team, fight!

Talented students provided entertainment at the informal dance climaxing Freshmen Week and welcoming the returning upperclassmen.

Hog-calling and square dancing were all a part of "Hull of a Hoe-down" sponsored by the Freshmen.

"Little Dogpatch" furnished the stampin' ground for the Senior Dance, "Hillbilly Heaven."

The Pajama Dance followed the pajama races where the rivalry between Freshmen and Sophomores was displayed.

Santa delivers "useful" gifts at the S.U. Christmas party.

Beginning the activities of the Christmas season was the traditional Dinkmeyer Hall Christmas Party which featured skits presented by several dorms, the singing of carols, and the reading of the Christmas story by Dr. Stanger, after which the students went caroling at the homes of faculty members. Polyhymnia presented its Christmas concert in the Wednesday morning Chapel service and also sang Christmas melodies before dawn in the dorms on Friday morning. Following the Thursday evening Chapel Choir candlelight service, the S.U. sponsored its Christmas party which included refreshments, a visit from Santa, and a pinata breaking. Rounding out the week were the Christmas dinner in Commons and a Christmas serenade on Thursday evening by the Glee Club.

Snow activities provided opportunity for outdoor fun.

Dr. Eugene Wehrli presents a lecture on the theme of the retreat, "Daring to Doubt."

Each year between semesters the C.C.F. sponsors a retreat held at the American Baptist Assembly in Green Lake, Wisconsin. The theme of the retreat, "Daring to Doubt," was presented in excellent fashion by Dr. Eugene Wehrli of Eden Seminary. After each of the three stimulating lectures the retreaters went to small discussion groups where they probed even deeper into the topic.

There were many interesting activities planned to keep the retreaters busy from morning till evening. Sunday night the traditional midnight hike was held. Monday there was ice skating, sledding, singing or just plain walking in the snow to occupy free time. Of course, there were many good old-fashioned snow ball fights. Tuesday was a day of many emotions—some students were eager to return to campus, others were unhappy about leaving the beautiful retreat site. One feeling that was experienced by all in attendance was that of true fellowship and inspiration.

Fellowship was an important part of the retreat.

Women students have a chance to meet the faculty wives at the Women's Union Christmas Tea.

The Women's Union is an organization whose main purpose is service. All women of Elmhurst College are members of this organization. Throughout the year the Women's Union sponsors several campus activities. These activities include the "big and little sister" program, a Thanksgiving project, women's intramurals, the Christmas Tea, the Circus, and Bachelors' Holiday. The governing body of Women's Union is a cabinet composed of the four officers, three committee chairmen and a faculty advisor. This cabinet meets once every month to take care of the executive functions of Women's Union.

The Christmas Tea furnished an opportunity for women of all four classes to socialize with one another.

Jerry Schriver reigned as King of "Peppermint Palace."

Kangaroo Court sentenced those girls not upholding their responsibility during Bachelors' Holiday.

To the men of Elmhurst College Bachelors' Holiday is the most joyous time of the year. This annual event, sponsored by Women's Union, lasts from Thursday to Saturday. During this time the women of Elmhurst have the opportunity to ask the man of their choice to be their escort to one or all of the events that have been planned. Thursday and Friday informal affairs are usually planned. The semi-formal dance on Saturday evening is a sparkling climax to the entire weekend. At this time the king of bachelors, as selected by the women of the college, is crowned. Bachelors' Holiday is one of the most popular events on campus and is enjoyed by all who participate in it.

Part of the entertainment for the dance was furnished by the Cheerleaders.

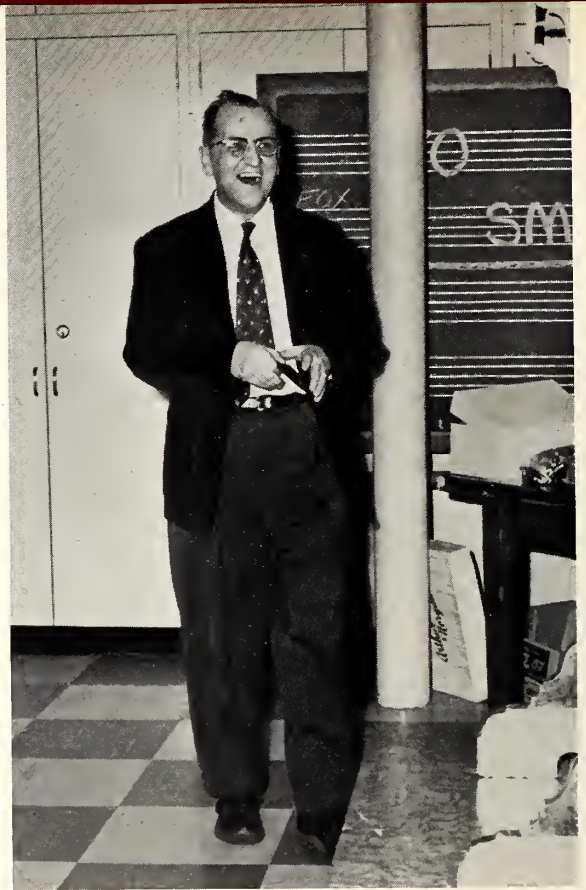

Who is enjoying the clowns more—child or “parent”?

Children of all ages enjoy a circus. The students of Elmhurst College are no exception. However, their enjoyment comes not only from the circus but also from the joy in the faces of the children they’ve “adopted” for the evening. Each year the Women’s Union invites the various children’s homes in the Chicago area to participate in a circus which is planned and produced by E. C. students. The various organizations and classes set up booths and games with prizes being given to the winners. The evening is climaxed with a “Big Top Show” which is held in the gym. This show includes acrobatic acts, trampoline acts, and, of course, the clowns. This is always a night that takes all who attend back to their childhood.

Looks like a winner at one of the games!

The Campus Chest project this year was carried out with a goal of earning enough money to pay room, board, and incidental fees for a foreign exchange student who will come to Elmhurst through the Foreign Student Leadership project of the National Student Association. The week began Sunday, February 18 with vespers at which an offering was taken. At Monday's assembly Irving Stolberg presented a talk on World University Service; several of E.C.'s foreign students also participated. Wednesday evening, following the basketball game, a "Waistline Party" was held—admission determined by measuring the waistlines. Climaxing the week's activities were the Variety Show on Friday and the Auction Saturday night with a variety of things being bought.

It was time again for fun, food and a before exam spree in the open spaces. Such was the setting for the annual Student Union Picnic held at Fullersburg Forest Preserve. The event began early in the afternoon when everyone met in front of Commons to get a ride for the big event. Anticipation mounted upon arriving, for there was softball, volleyball, and other games to be played. A walk in the woods was more pleasing for some. Soon it was dinner time and all who attended saw the day drawing to a close. Shortly after dinner, climbing back into the cars for the trip home, students were glad they had gone and were eager for the time to come next year for another Student Union Picnic.

A winner!

E.I.I. COURT: Janet Scott, Lynne Price, Karen Benson, Queen; Barb Mowchan, Janet Wagner.

The 28th Annual Elmhurst Intercollegiate Invitational Track and Field Meet was held in May during Parents' Weekend. Approximately thirty small colleges and universities in the surrounding area participated in the events—the discus throw, javelin, broad jump, high jump, and running events. Despite the early morning heavy rains, four records were broken, one in running and three in field events.

The Class A Division was captured by the Northern Illinois Huskies, and the North Central Cardinals topped the Class B Division. Bob Smith was the only man from Elmhurst who placed in this year's competition.

Around and around and around they go!

The River Forest Country Club was the scene of "Camelot," the 1962 Junior Prom. Bud Dinwiddie's Orchestra furnished the music as the knights guided their ladies around the dance floor. The high point of the evening was the coronation of this year's queen Karen Benson by the 1961 prom queen Judy McCall.

This year was somewhat special for a new crown was worn for the first time—however, it will find itself being worn by many future prom queens. Although there were no tournaments or shining armor, the knights and their ladies enjoyed an evening of medieval splendor.

DR. STANGER

Dr. Robert C. Stanger, now completing his fourth year as president of Elmhurst College, serves as the link from the Board of Directors and the administration to the students of the college. In this position he performs the many tasks which are a part of the college policy, and also leads the administration in the many and varied activities that comprise the functions of a liberal arts school. In addition to the above functions, Dr. Stanger is both the religious and educational leader of the college and in this capacity serves as an inspiration to the students.

BOARD OF DIRECTORS

The Board of Directors is an important part of every large organization; and, Elmhurst College is no exception in this respect. This body of men is made up of outstanding civic leaders from various communities throughout the country. Their positions as members of the Board brings them to the campus several times during the year. On these occasions they meet to discuss the major functional policies of the college for the coming year. Through the use of subcommittees, the Board acts on proposals in such areas as curriculum, fees and budgeting and development of the college. This year the directors of the college passed a proposal to convert the college radio station to F.M. They have also spent a considerable amount of time formulating plans for the new college center.

Administration

Fundamental to the existence of every liberal arts college is a staff of personnel called the administration, who separately and collectively make decisions for realizing the objectives of that institution. Here at Elmhurst College the Administration manifests the educative, progressive, and religious aims of the college through unity, cooperation, and coordination. Their animating forces of enthusiasm and devotion are directed toward upholding the traditions of our small college. With these inherent desires and goals the Administration very capably carries out the many and varied activities necessary to a well-functioning organization. In addition the staff members provide assistance to Dr. Robert C. Stanger in his numerous tasks as President of the College.

In order for Elmhurst College to be run efficiently and effectively, various staffs are necessary. The administration office staff carries out the many duties involved in keeping accurate accounts and student records and in assisting the deans and other administration officials. Keeping the college grounds and buildings in good condition requires the daily attention of the maintenance staff. The nurses furnish medical attention for those students who require such care, and this year a doctor joined the medical staff to provide regular services on the campus. The librarians are on hand to assist the students in their quest for knowledge.

Students preview plans for new Student Center.

Progress!

As the Decade of Development got underway this year, several events marked a concrete sign of progress. One of these events was the dedication of the New Men's Dormitory, now known as Niebuhr Hall. This event was held during Homecoming Weekend. The other event was the ground-breaking for the new Student Center. Before this took place, students were able to view the plans and receive an explanation of the facilities that the new center will have. Both of these seem to be one more step toward the goal of the Decade of Development.

The New Men's Dormitory—Niebuhr Hall—is dedicated.

The Student Union, the official student government body on campus, is the only official group channel through which students can deal with the administration. It is composed of the Executive Cabinet, the Student Senatè, and the Citizen Assembly. Religious Life, Social Life, and Athletic Committees are the standing committees of the Cabinet. The Social Life Committee is responsible for the over-all social program of the college and also arranges the meeting times of the various clubs. The Religious Life Committee is responsible for such things as vespers and Religion-in-Life Week, as well as for other religious activities on campus. One of the concerns of the Athletic Committee is the organization of the intramural program for both men and women. The Student Development Committee aids the administration in matters related to the development of the college and acts as a sounding board for student opinion in these areas.

Dorm Councils

Disputes and problems within each dorm are handled by the dorm councils. These are generally made up of representatives from each floor, the dorm president or chairman, and the head residents of the dorm. Some of the functions of dorm council members are to draw up "house rules" and see to it that they are obeyed, serve in a limited judiciary capacity, and to generally work to improve life in the dorm.

Problems whose scope involves the entire campus are handled by the inter-dorm council. This group is made up of a representative and an officer from each dorm. One of the specific accomplishments of the inter-dorm council in 1962 was the placing of Coke machines in each dorm. As a rule, however, the problems facing this group are of a more serious nature, such as wardrobe closets or flagrant violation of campus rules.

Friendly discussion was the keynote of editorial meetings.

Elms

The Elms, the college yearbook, attempts to present an accurate picture of the year's events and activities through the use of skillful photography and graphic copy. Beginning quite early in the college year, Elms' staff members "laid out" the preliminary "dummy," took account of all campus activities for accurate copywriting, and began snapping pictures. The work became more intense and active as the year progressed and deadlines had to be met. Heading the staff is the hard working editor whose job it is to make assignments and coordinate all work on the book. The Elms presents Elmhurst College, its actions, its feelings, and its purpose.

Elm Bark

EXECUTIVE STAFF: Sandra Cone, Bill Rabiega, Hank Holzkamper, Dick Hemann, Bill Ball, Gloria McCall, Helen Hummelke.

Under the leadership of Ann Finkle and Dick Hemann, the Elm Bark was once again a very successful college newspaper, receiving a first place rating by the Associated Collegiate Press.

The Elm Bark provided the EC student with news of campus life and thus served as the "voice of the Student Union." Beside this, the college newspaper brought to the attention of the students national and world issues of importance and thereby helped the student to maintain contact with the world outside the college community.

In addition, it provided many students with practical experience in the various fields of journalism.

Jean Indermark has technical problems in putting together the college newspaper.

Mr. David Austin directs the Men's Glee Club.

Glee Club

Hard Work and long hours of practice pay off in good close harmony and full rich tones for the Elmhurst College Men's Glee Club. This "all-man" group is quite versatile. They do both religious and secular numbers with precision and perfection.

Each spring these talented Elmhurst men and their talented director, Mr. David Austin, embark on a nine-day tour. This year they traveled to the southeastern states. Throughout the year the group gave concerts both on and off campus. They also gave an assembly program and certain members of the group sang at various school functions.

The successful mixture of work and fun found in the Glee Club afforded many benefits both to their audiences and to each individual member of the Club.

The Chapel Choir

The Chapel Choir under the direction of Dr. T. Howard Krueger enables students to participate in many worship services through music. The Choir prepared music to sing in chapel services, churches in the Elmhurst area and for concerts during their annual spring concert tour. They also sang at the traditional Christmas Candlelight Service.

This year during the spring tour the Choir of approximately forty members sang in six states—Illinois, Ohio, Pennsylvania, New York, Michigan, and Indiana. The music this year consisted of various selections among which was the complete work of The Peaceable Kingdom by Randall Thompson. Chapel Choir members consider membership in this choral group to be one of the highlights of their college career.

Dr. Krueger directs the Chapel Choir.

Polyhymnia is a fine musical organization which is composed of twenty-four young women. Under the direction of Mrs. Viola Repp, these women beautifully sing both sacred and secular music. The talented group not only participated in many of the weekly chapel services, but also presented concerts in Elmhurst churches and churches in the surrounding communities. During the year Polyhymnia made their traditional music tour accompanied by "Snoopy," the group's adorable mascot dog. This year they represented Elmhurst College as they traveled to Wisconsin, Minnesota, South Dakota, Nebraska, and Iowa. At Christmas time, the "Poly" girls arose very early in the morning in order to sing beloved Christmas carols for the sleepy-eyed dorm residents. This put everyone in the Christmas spirit before leaving school for the holidays.

The "Poly" girls spend a great deal of time rehearsing.

The Christmas presentation of the Choral Union was The Messiah.

Choral Union

Dr. Krueger directs the Choral Union and the Elmhurst Community Chorus in the presentation of the Creation.

The Choral Union was founded in 1952 to give all those connected with Elmhurst College an opportunity for religious and musical expression through performances of major sacred choral compositions. The two annual concerts of the Choral Union are major functions of the college. Membership in this group is open to all students and staff members of the college. The group meets together two hours every week to rehearse for these performances.

This year in conjunction with the Elmhurst Community Chorus, the Elmhurst College Choral Union, under the direction of Dr. T. Howard Krueger presented two sacred music programs. In December over one hundred voices were joined together to present Handel's Messiah. Again in May these groups joined together to present Haydn's Creation.

Every student has the opportunity to expand his interest in any phase of theatre production whether it be stage directions, set building, or costuming through membership in the Theatre Guild. Each prospective member is given the title of "Guppy" and remains in apprenticeship for one year. During this time, the "Guppy" becomes acquainted with such aspects as basic acting terminology, and the functions of the behind-the-scene man. Each student must meet certain requirements prior to the initiation ceremony which indicates full-fledged membership. During the year, the Guild sponsored an all-campus dance, as well as intra-group activities.

W. R. S. E.

W.R.S.E., the campus radio station, presented a variety of interesting, informative, and entertaining programs to EC students. Programs, scheduled Sunday through Friday, included hourly news reports and broadcast sports events. "Sacred Music for a Sunday Evening," "Sports Show," "Theological Viewpoint," and "Jazz" were a few programs which indicate the wide scope of W.R.S.E. coverage. In addition to presenting interesting programs to the campus, the station also provided opportunities for students to serve as announcers, engineers, panel members, and newscasters. W.R.S.E. improved and increased its facilities, adding two new turntables and taking steps to convert the station for FM broadcasting.

John Mathe, Don Juday, Ken Press, Bob Hammerl, and Don Fearn broadcast an away football game.

Paul Rucker, Leo Fitts, and Ray Miller were the finalists in the 14th annual Schick Speech contest.

Participation in debate affords the individual the opportunity to develop skill in prompt, precise, logical, and critical thinking particularly in the areas of argumentation and public speaking. The Elmhurst Debating Team, composed of veteran debaters and novice debaters, selected after several tryouts, and coached by Mr. John E. Gow, debated in various practice tournaments in the Chicago area and participated in national intercollegiate tournaments. The national debate topic for this year was, Resolved: that labor organizations should be under the jurisdiction of anti-trust legislation.

Meetings were also held for those students interested in extemporaneous speaking, oral interpretation and oratory. And each year Elmhurst College conducts the Schick Speech Contest and an intra-college contest.

Debate and Speech Activities

Active once again this year, the debaters held a debate during a college assembly.

Campus Christian Fellowship

The Campus Christian Fellowship, better known as C.C.F. is open to all students of Elmhurst College. Meetings are held on Sunday night following a vesper service sponsored by this same organization. C.C.F. also sponsored the annual winter retreat and various trips to churches of other faiths.

C.C.F. is organized into two commissions or action study groups. The World Focus Commission which sponsored various work projects; and, the Christian Concerns Commission which sponsored trips to various houses of worship. This group also hopes to organize some prayer groups. C.C.F. serves as the channel for all religious projects both on and off campus. It is interested in the relationship of the Christian faith to political, economical and social situations and it also makes studies of other religions.

Pindar

The 1961 Jays managed to do something not done too often in recent years. They won a game! October 21, 1961, will go down in history as a day to remember, for that day the score read Elmhurst 48, Rose Poly 0. Yet there were other days when the Jays did themselves proud. North Park paid Elmhurst a visit expecting another easy victory. Were they surprised! The game was a battle right down to the wire, Elmhurst finally succumbing by a mere one point, 7-6. Some indication of what lay ahead came in the rain-and-mud-soaked season opener when the blue and white battled Northwestern to a scoreless tie as the defense dug in and held the enemy time and again deep in friendly territory late in the fourth quarter. It was the defense, in fact, which carried the team through the first half of the season, except for the disappointing visit to Earlham. All in all, the season held out much hope for the future, since Freshmen "made" the team.

"I think we got him, guys," yells Bruce Robertson as three Jays close in on a Cougar ball carrier.

Long Awaited Victory Revives Football Hopes

"When the ball is snapped, you charge as hard as you can. Hit low and hit him with your shoulder pads."

No, it's not Swan Lake, but only Bob Smith's imitation ballet in kicking off to Concordia.

This was Football 1961 . . .

Will anyone forget . . . Jerry Shriver's dancing down the sidelines for the first touchdown of the year, then throwing the ball high in the air, against North Park? Paul Rucker's near TD run at Rose Poly? Bob Smith's crunching tackles? Denny Hotle's jump passes? Earl Roehm's interceptions? Gary Miller's all around play, as leading ground gainer on offense and top-flight linebacker on defense? Those long passes to Dean Hackett? All those touchdowns? Rich Kroll's punts?

Will they forget . . . sitting in the rain in the season opener? The surprising crowds at Navy Pier, Rose Poly, and St. Proco? The hysterical Victory Weekend? Crowding along the sidelines at St. Procopius in expectation of a touchdown that never came? Picking up shattered pieces of the "Invisible Barrier?" The band at Homecoming?

Jays play Keystone Cops, but nab their prey.

The coaching staff remained much the same this year, with "Uncle Pete" once again at the reins, assisted by Neal Blum and Walt Schousen, once coach of the now defunct cross-country. This year's attack emphasized the aerial route more than in previous seasons, while the ground forces relied on a "Wing T" to bat out their yardage.

That this system worked rather successfully is attested to by 12 TD's scored this year, as compared with last year's two.

The outlook for the 1962 season is extremely bright, since only three seniors were on the squad, and there will be nineteen returning lettermen. Much will be expected of the many freshmen who put life into the team this year.

Captains for 1962 will be Willie Anderson, Jim Leamon, Dennis Bilen, and Bob Rotgers. Most Valuable Player for 1961 was Bob Smith.

Win Ignites Campus Frenzy

Unmethodical madness swept the campus in the wake of the football victory over Rose Poly. The end of the game started a wild afternoon of celebration culminating in a clamorous motorcade up York Street followed by a torchlight victory rally in front of Old Main. Eight hectic hours of preparation for the team's return were touched off by a snake dance around the campus. Decorations were hastily thrown up on the campus. The aura of excitement which began to build with the end of the game reached its climax when the bus bearing the team rolled to a stop in front of the gym. All the pent-up jubilation of four years of frustration erupted as the players alighted to be greeted by a gleeful mob of howling students. In the pep rally that followed, "Uncle Pete" finally responded to the chant "We want Pete!" and stepped forward. His face etched in the warm glow from the torches, he spoke to the now silent crowd. "The boys," he said, "did a good job."

"The boys did a good job."

Cheerleaders Boost Pep, Spirit

Eight important assets to the campus scene in 1962 were the eight dedicated and enthusiastic cheerleaders. Led by Captain Linda Moore, the squad devoted both time and energy to putting their best cheers forward. The results were clearly evident, during the rain soaked Northwestern game, and at distant Rose Poly. Cheering at the games, however, was only one of many ways in which these girls served the student body, for they also organized pep rallies, publicized coming athletic events, entertained at the Bachelor's Holiday Dance, and helped instill a new spirit on campus. Symbolical of this new spirit were the classy and well-deserved new outfits. Worn for the first time at the start of the basketball season, they replaced a well-worn and much older set retired without lament.

"B-E-A-T—Beat Earlham!"

Auld Lang Syne to old uniforms is sung by Kathy Kratzer and Patty Day

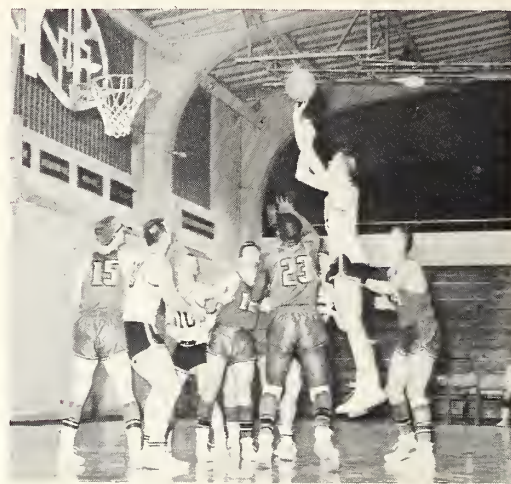

Cager Comeback Fosters Hope

Handicapped by lack of height and lack of depth, it seemed to the Jays that the 1961-62 season would be as unkind as the previous one. The premature loss of 6' 6" center Bruce Minier caused the team to go into a protracted slump and made inevitable the development of a new style of play. The solution to this problem was ball-control. Ball games decided by five points or less became common with the Jays taking their fair share of these low-scoring duels. Scores dropped from 92-75 and 76-74 to 51-46 and 57-54. Within three games the Jays became quite adept at this style of play, much to the disgust of road spectators and nervousness of the home fans.

The squad was composed mainly of freshmen and sophomores, most of whom will return to form a good nucleus for the 1962-63 season. The only upperclassmen were Lee Yunker and Moe Dobrowski, both juniors.

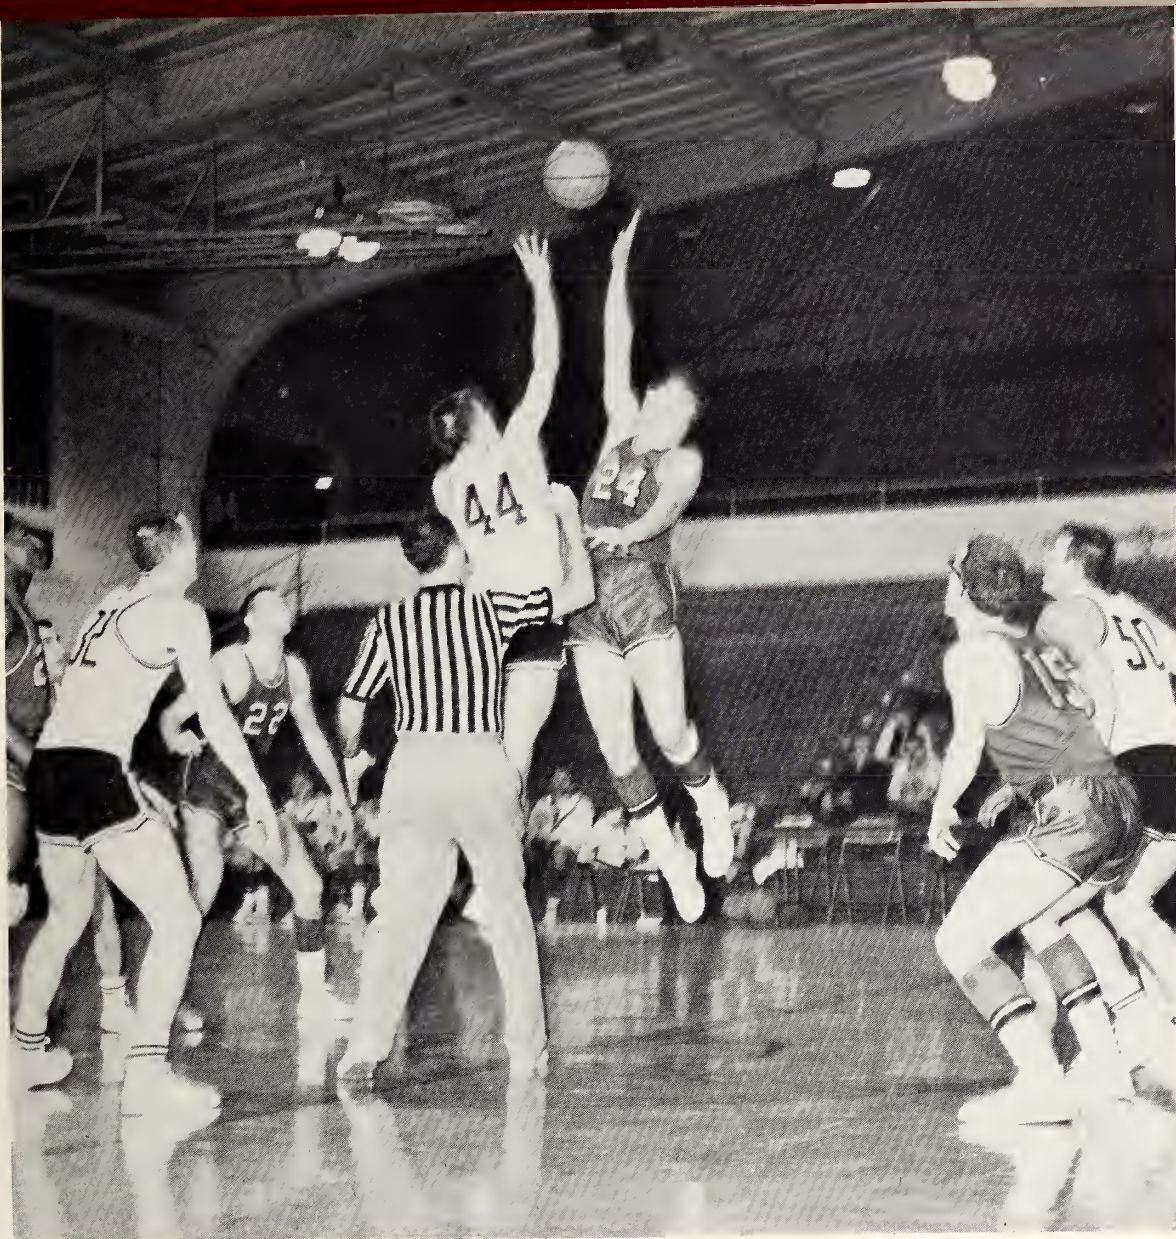

Line forms to the right for lessons in step-ins.

What goes up. . . .

. . . must come down.

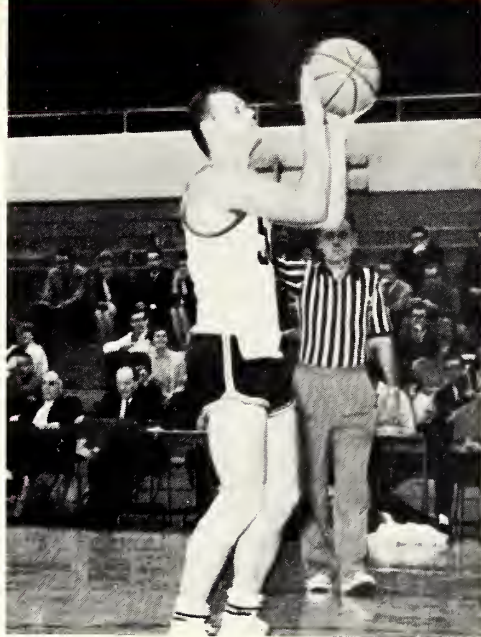

Two hands strain for the ball; the game begins.

Action and excitement are key words to spectators at a basketball game, and these qualities were not lacking in Elmhurst basketball during 1961-62. The first three home victories were by but one point each. The North Central game especially left the fans limp as the Jays won on a jump shot by Phil Bodenstab from the free-throw line with a mere seven seconds remaining. One of the biggest wins of the year was the 63-62 decision over Kalamazoo, another being the road victory over Rockford which broke a two year drought of wins on foreign courts.

Will it go in?

Free throws are a study in concentration.

This past season shifted from one extreme to another, from optimism to despair to self-confidence. The season started off on the right foot with a one-point squeaker over Lake Forest, the Kalamazoo game, and a narrow 76-74 loss to Carthage. Gloom came to the Elmhurst camp with a five game losing streak in which the Jays were completely outclassed. The road back started at Kalamazoo, where the Jays slowed the game way down and lost to the high-scoring Hornets 49-43 after trailing 45-28 with six minutes remaining. The Jays then picked up three of their next four games, beating North Central, Rockford, and Millikin while losing only to Illinois Tech. Team play was important in the rejuvenation of EC basketball, as nine men lettered. Outstanding players included Phil Bodensstab, a freshman who led the team in rebounding and scoring; Moe Dobrowski, veteran sharp-shooting guard; and Tom Riess.

"Coach" Jungfer Drives against Glen Ellyn.

Splash! This sound announced another first at Elmhurst, for on February 10, 1962, the first inter-collegiate swim meet was held in the college pool, against Navy Pier. The swimming team, organized and coached by "Spud" Owen, was small in number and limited in success but plans to keep trying in future years. There were no more than ten members, yet even this small group contained a nucleus for a good team. Freshman Mike Thomas, sophs Jack Pardun and Mike Corrao, and senior Randy Kossman picked up most of EC's points.

One other sport appeared on the campus in 1962, hockey. Originally conceived of as an intramural league, the team was coached by soph Rich Jungfer and played 7 matches, held at the YMCA rink. Outstanding players were Bob Nikodem, Bill Powers, Jim Schmitz, Bob Hoffmeyer and Jungfer. Plans were made for an unofficial league of local colleges to operate next year.

Ready? Wrestle!

Grapplers Grunt, Puff

Once again in 1961, the home wrestling matches gave E. C. coeds a chance to see their muscular heroes in action. Hard practice went into these appearances for the local fans, however. The team was again coached by Pete Langhorst, and posted a victory over Carroll as the highlight of the season.

Among the individual grapplers, Jim Leamon at 177, Marty Thomen at 157, and Warren Singleton at 137 provided the standouts. Leamon continued his lifetime winning record until sidelined late in the season. Thomen, although without a winning record to show for his efforts, displayed some mighty fine wrestling skill for Coach Pete. Singleton, along with other newcomers Andy Ludanyi and Pete Menconi, shows signs of developing into a tough competitor. The only senior on the team was Paul Rucker, a heavyweight who is better known for his linguistic accomplishments.

For the second straight year the baseball edition of the Blue Jays established new standards for future teams to shoot for, posting a 12-5-1 record and finishing second to Lewis in the Chicagoland Baseball Conference with a 6-4 league tally. Dropping three of the first four games, the Jays rebounded handsomely to cop 11 of the next 12 games.

Those who braved the cold and hot weather to see their battling nine were treated to the hard hitting of Bruce Murdock (.343) and Ralph Cooper (.312); the pitching of the entire staff, Ralph Cooper, Ken Spiroff, Bill Blaesing, and Larry Tyler, which was phenomenal (2.17 season E.R.A.); the daring baserunning of Moe Dobrowski and Danny Mell; and Steve Grande's fielding. Dobrowski appears to be the only loss at the present time, and much help will be needed from the freshmen.

Moe lines out a hit as the catcher waits for the ball that never came.

Netmen Journey South

The 1962 version of the netmindere tabbed a 3-9 record, posting victories over Concordia and St. Proco twice. The squad was weakened mid-season when number one-man Dave Naefe was felled by grades, reducing the manpower quota to a mere six. The 1963 team is faced with possible extinction without a number of freshmen prospects.

The 1962 racketeers beat the weather rap by journeying south to the St. Louis area during Spring Recess, thus establishing another E. C. first, and in this case, last, as the team will seek a strictly local slate for the coming season. The trip afforded them a lot of sun and little else. Home meets do not range so far afield, being held in East End Park.

The most valuable member was Bob Hughes, a junior.

Here it comes! Han Soo is ready.

Another spring sport racked up a winning season this year as the hackers concluded the divot trail in May with a 12-4 record, the best since 1958. The "Spudniks" were led by most valuable member Bob Hammerl, a senior, and Jim Larson, also a senior. Other members who made valuable contributions were Warren Singleton and Ned Shevelson.

Victims in 1962 included Lewis, Eureka, Illinois Wesleyan, Concordia, North Central, St. Procopius, Millikin, and MacMurray. The losses were to Navy Pier, St. Proco, Carroll, and the Pier again.

Ken Riemer, another senior, will be gone from the Linksters, but perhaps another good year will be in store for them anyway.

Watch that divot fly now!

Tracksters Make Tracks

Once again the thinclads, short on manpower but long on desire, came through with a fairly successful season. The top pointmakers were Tom Riess, Don Sinclair, and Bob Smith. Riess tried nearly every event in rolling up the most valuable player award. He scored in high jump, broad jump, low and high hurdles, 440 and relay. For this along with his work on basketball, he was voted Athlete of the Year. Sinclair broke the record for the mile on several occasions during the year, his best time being 4:32 in the E.I.I. He also ran the two mile and was a consistent winner in both events. Bob Smith tossed the shot and the javelin and rolled up many a point in these areas. One of the keenest disappointments of the year was finishing second to Lakeland, of Sheboygan, Wisconsin, in the Chicagoland Independent Invitational. Overall, however, the final mark was highly respectable.

Lettermen Form Solid Club

Finley McGrew speaks at the Athletic Banquet.

The new E-Club came about as the result of successful efforts to make the club stronger, more unified, and of greater use to the school following a review of the purpose and program of the club which showed an unfavorable ledger. The reform launched immediately into a new identity by holding a club banquet and subjecting the new members to the once annual horror of initiation. The club will continue its traditional sponsorship of a fall dance and election of the E.I.I. queen and court, supplementing this with occasional car washes, hay rides and beach parties. It supports a booth in the Women's Union Circus. Membership includes participation in club activities, receiving a club card and certificate, and in the future, a lifetime pass to athletic events, but entails the responsibilities of paying dues and contributing to club activities.

Men's Intramurals

The men's intramural program is operated in connection with the Student Union government. Moe Dobrowski headed the intramural athletic committee and served as S.U. athletic chairman.

In the fall, six man touch football was the main activity. The "Gear Grinders" took the league championship. In winter, intramural basketball was set up in a slightly different manner. The teams were made up according to physical locale. Each floor of the men's dorms and the commuters had league representatives. "A" and "B" leagues were established according to high school participation and other playing experience. The "A" league championship went to the Commuters. The "B" league championship went to the first floor of Niebuhr Hall. Spring activities centered around a 16 inch softball league. The teams were chosen under a player-draft system in which teams again were picked according to locale.

Who gets credit for the basket?

Basket, basket, basket!

"Strike one!"

Who will get it?

Women's Intramurals

Up and over!

Will it go in?

Every Tuesday and Thursday throughout the year, many of the Elmhurst co-eds were seen actively demonstrating their sportive capabilities in volleyball, basketball, badminton or softball. These are the activities of the Intramural Program sponsored by Women's Union. The organization rewards its participants in the form of a letter or pin through an accumulative point system. Besides being an outlet for physical activity, the program allows E.C. women to exhibit their athletic ability, and provides good exercise, immense fun and enjoyment. Even the male spectators find the awkward and haphazard feminine attempts at athletic competition fascinating and amusing.

This year, the Fighting Frosh and Junior Jays respectively were victorious in the volleyball and basketball round-robin competition.

Class of 1965

This fall began an exciting different way of life for the freshman entering Elmhurst College. Many lasting ideas, impressions, opinions, values, friendships, and ways of life will be formed during the following four years—years which will be expressions of hopes and fears, joys and sorrows, strengths and weaknesses. Each individual freshman will attempt to discover what he really is and what his future plans will be. His interests will be revealed through his academic, social, and organizational activities. His future life will be based on the type of training and education which he will receive throughout his years at Elmhurst College.

The Sophomore Class returned to the Campus bringing with them memories of their first year at Elmhurst College and looking forward to another rewarding year through which they would gather many more memories. Freshmen became aware of this class almost immediately, for it was the Sophomores who quizzed Freshmen on the contents of the "E" Book, sent them back to their dorms from Commons for missing name tags, and made certain that they wore their beanies at all times. The Sophomore Class took charge of the Freshman Work-Day by assigning Freshmen to tasks of cleaning and repairing various sections of the campus. After a basketball game, the Sophomore women of Lehmann Hall sponsored an Oriental Party to which the whole student body was invited. Perhaps the biggest event sponsored by the Sophomores was their annual semi-formal—the theme of this dance Being "Submersion," and featuring Al Monti's orchestra.

Climaxing a busy year, the Junior Class presented the annual Junior Prom, "Camelot," at the River Forest Country Club, in River Forest, Illinois. During the year the class sold "Junior Goodies" (candy bars, pop, hot dogs, etc.) at football games, dances, and theatre productions, to help finance this event. The members of the class helped to sell the "Goodies" at the various events. In the fall the Juniors held their annual "Sun-up" breakfast which they began in their Sophomore year. Here the Juniors gathered for breakfast and some entertainment to start a perfect day.

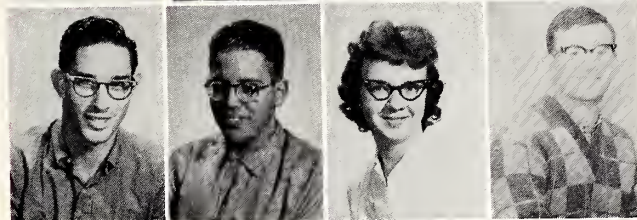

In February, President and Mrs. Stanger invited the Junior Class to their home for the yearly Junior Tea, which proved to be very enjoyable. All in all, it was a busy, but rewarding, year for the Junior Class.

The Junior heart and mind are warm, sincere, and bright.

ELMHURST COLLEGE
ELMHURST, ILLINOIS

OFFICE OF
THE PRESIDENT

To the Members of the
Class of 1962

Dear Seniors:

Let me be among those who offer you congratulations on the completion of your course at Elmhurst College. I am writing, first of all, officially to express the good wishes of the faculty and of the administration of our school. Four years of life and experience together develop ties and relationships which become meaningful. You have become a part of Elmhurst, and we are interested in you and in your success in the years ahead. It is our hope that Elmhurst also has become a part of you, and that the education in the liberal arts and in Christian values has enriched and deepened your life and personality. We wish you satisfaction in your chosen field of work, either in the graduate school or in business or the professions.

During the years of your stay at Elmhurst you have witnessed its growth. There have been more students, more buildings, more activities. You have witnessed our entrance into the program of the "Decade of Development." In the unfolding of that program you will play a part as an alumnus. We ask you to continue your interest and to share in the effort.

Our thoughts will be with you wherever you go and our prayers and good wishes will accompany you.

SENIOR CLASS OFFICERS: Randolph Kossmann, Treasurer; Karen Dorn, Secretary; Ralph Blume, President; and Raymond Miller, Vice-President.

Seniors-Class of 1962

Four years ago we entered upon a new threshold of higher learning. We anticipated the future demands to be placed upon us, and we became uncertain as to whether we could face the challenges to come. As freshmen, graduation was a future goal toward which we directed ourselves. Now that we have graduated, graduation day has become one highlight of our past. But as we look back, we realize that together we gained academically, socially, and spiritually. The senior year will perhaps be more memorable for socially there were such activities as the Senior Tea, the Senior Dance, and Senior Week; and academically, student teaching and field work. We can be assured that our experience and our wealth of knowledge will express itself in every phase of life because we have been prepared to live fully and make life purposeful. Even though life is over at Elmhurst and each of us have gone our separate ways, "school we love, Elmhurst," we will continue to "live for aye" and remain a symbol of the motto "In thy light we shall see light."

The Senior heart and mind are open, mature, and free.

Time as he grows old teaches many lessons!

We lived

The Elmhurst College campus revolves around the Sunken Gardens.

Dinkmeyer Hall is the home away from home for upperclass women.

The New Men's Dorm—now named Niebuhr Hall—was a new addition to the campus this year.

Lehmann Hall, once the home of men, became this year the abode of sophomore women.

This is where it

Irion Hall, the oldest college dormitory, not only provides housing for some men, but also provides studios for the music department.

South Hall—re-named Schick Hall this year—provided living quarters for freshman women.

We learned

all took place

The library is a place for study and research.

Kranz Hall contains facilities for many areas of college life: the speech clinic, classrooms, faculty offices, the Student Union, and W.R.S.E.

Old Main furnishes the greatest amount of classroom space, and it also contains the Campus Store.
